

Cindy Heil

Cindy Heil is the Section Manager of the Mobile Sources section of the Alaska Department of Environmental Conservation. She has worked in Air Quality with the department for 12 years.

Her first 3 years were in stationary sources before transferring into Mobile sources. During her 9 years with Mobile Sources she has been a member of Anchorage's Metropolitan Planning Organization's Technical Advisory Committee where she represents air quality in transportation planning. She is also responsible for implementation of the oxygenated fuels program and for the I/M program for the department.