

VIN Check Digit Advisory

2015 Jeep Renegade and 2016 Fiat 500X Vehicles

A number* of new model 2015 Jeep Renegade and 2016 Fiat 500X vehicles were built in March and April 2015 with an atypical Vehicle Identification Number (VIN) that may not be automatically recognized by some computer systems. Specifically, instead of being derived via calculations, the 9th character of the VIN ("check digit") defaulted to "0" (zero). All other characters are correct. If one of these vehicles is not recognized by your software application, verify the data entry is accurate and if so, please implement any local procedures for manual processing or an override.

Common and Unique VIN Characteristic Identifiers

	COMMON					UNIQUE			CHK	COMMON				UNIQUE (RANGE)
VIN POSITION	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
JEEP RENEGADE	Z	A	C	C	J	MULTIPLE COMBINATIONS			0	F	P	B	From 52184 to 76827
FIAT 500 X	Z	F	B	C	F				0	G	P	3	From 17640 to 38891

FCA has communicated with the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) and the National Insurance Crime Bureau (NICB) and filed a VIN decoder update in accordance with 49 CFR 565 requirements. FCA is also working with organizations such as IHS Automotive (Polk), Experian, and the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators (AAMVA) for awareness and to implement computer system updates to help mitigate any inconvenience. These updates have already started and will help support normal processing but will continue phasing in through July so manual intervention may be needed until then.
